NGSA Statement on Change in FERC Chairmanship

(Washington, D.C.) -- Natural Gas Supply Association (NGSA) president and CEO Dena E. Wiggins made the following statement about the announcement that Neil Chatterjee will assume the chairmanship of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), while Kevin McIntyre will move into the role of FERC Commissioner:

“Former Chairman McIntyre has led FERC with a fair-minded and keen attention to making sound decisions for regulated markets, industry and customers. He chaired the Commission with grace even during a time of hardship and challenges to his health. We hope his new position as FERC Commissioner allows him a return to full health.

“We look forward to working with Neil Chatterjee as Chairman, a role where his experience will help steer the Commission forward smoothly and under sound leadership.”

The Natural Gas Supply Association (NGSA) represents integrated and independent companies that supply natural gas. Founded in 1965, NGSA is the only national trade association that solely focuses on producer-marketer issues related to the downstream natural gas industry. NGSA maintains a deep focus on the regulatory issues that affect natural gas producer-marketers and has been involved in a substantive manner in every one of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission’s significant natural gas rulemakings since FERC’s creation in 1977.
