NGSA Commends Senate for Confirmation of John Norris as FERC Commissioner

(Washington, D.C.) -- The Natural Gas Supply Association (NGSA) today commended members of the U.S. Senate for their December 24th confirmation of John Norris as a commissioner on the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC).

Skip Horvath, President and CEO of NGSA, said, "We look forward to working with John Norris in his new role as FERC Commissioner, particularly in light of his statements that regulatory certainty and confidence in the markets are personal priorities. This clearly demonstrates his understanding that industry requires solid information and confidence in the regulatory environment in order to make the best informed decisions about investment in infrastructure. His vast regulatory experience will be an asset to FERC so that Commissioner Norris can hit the ground running."
