

Patricia W. Jagtiani
Executive Vice President

Patricia W. Jagtiani is Executive Vice President of the Natural Gas Supply Association (NGSA). She joined NGSA in 1999.

As executive vice president, Pat assists in strategic planning and policy development for the association in addition to representing NGSA before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). In this capacity, she works closely with NGSA's membership to assist them in the development of positions pertaining to regulatory issues that impact natural gas producers and marketers. Most recently, Pat has played a lead role in industry discussions with other natural gas stakeholders and the power industry to improve gas-electric coordination.

Prior to joining NGSA, Pat served as an advisor on natural gas and oil pipeline issues for FERC Chairman Hoecker and played a leadership role in the policy development of Order No. 637, which led to significant pipeline structural and pricing improvements aimed at increasing competition in the natural gas industry. During her earlier years at the Commission, Pat served as an expert witness testifying in numerous pipeline rate proceedings including key cases involving significant cost impacts for system expansions as well as requests for system-wide market-based rates.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, Pat Jagtiani has a Bachelor of Arts degree in both Political Science and International Studies.