

Hinson Peters Strategic Communications Manager

Hinson Peters is a strategic communications manager for the Natural Gas Supply Association and the Center for Liquefied Natural Gas. He joined NGSA and CLNG in 2017.

Hinson supports the Director of Strategic Communications in writing press releases, talking points, media planning and outreach, and organizing events to communicate about natural gas, the natural gas industry and NGSA policies through written and electronic materials, events and other opportunities. He also oversees social media accounts for the organization and maintains organization websites.

After graduating in 2014, Hinson worked on Capitol Hill, as well as for Capitol Solutions (now known as Federal Budget IQ), Multistate Associates, and a variety of political campaigns during each election cycle.

Hinson earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from James Madison University in Political Science with minors in Political Communication and History. He will complete a Master's degree from George Washington University in Legislative Affairs in the fall of 2019.
