NGSA Hails Senators' Commitment to Meaningful Permitting Reform

(Washington, D.C.) – The Natural Gas Supply Association (NGSA) issued a statement today in recognition of significant activity in the U.S. Senate to advance infrastructure permitting reform.

Dena Wiggins, President and CEO of NGSA, said:

“We’re encouraged by the resolve and commitment to achieve meaningful, constructive reforms to infrastructure permitting demonstrated by U.S. Senators Manchin, Barrasso, and Capito.

“We’re hopeful their leadership will result in legislation to address problems with permitting and thus bring relief and reliable energy to consumers who currently are forced to pay more for their energy because of infrastructure bottlenecks.

“It’s heartening to see these Senators tackling the challenge of energy infrastructure and we applaud their efforts.”
